OF

Spelman Seminary,

FOR

WOMEN AND GIRLS,

IN

Atlanta, Georgia.

1894-95.

ATLANTA, GA.:
SPELMAN MESSENGER OFFICE.
1895.

MISS SOPHIA B. PACKARD.

"Dead she is not, but departed."

Miss Sophia B. Packard was born in New Salem, Mass., in 1824, and educated in the schools of that town and of Shelburne Falls, and Charlestown Female Seminary. She graduated from the latter celebrated school in 1850. Meanwhile she had already begun her life work, having entered upon teaching at the age of sixteen. Four years in the schools of Cape Cod were followed by work at New Salem Academy, and in private schools in Petersham, Dana, Orange, Greenfield and Fitchburg, and then at the Connecticut Literary Institute at Suffield, Conn. Leaving this she was principal of the Oread Institute at Worcester for three years. Her health having suffered from these continuous years of teaching, she engaged in office work in Boston in the Empire Life Insurance Co. This was followed by years of active Christian work, first as a pastor's assistant for eight years to Rev. G. C. Lorimer, D. D., at the Shawmut Ave. Baptist Church, and Tremont Temple, Boston, and then as treasurer and corresponding secretary of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, in the organization of which she was an active leader. In 1879 she spent a summer in European travel for rest and recreation. Coming south in 1880 in behalf of the above society, her heart was stirred for the elevation of the colored women and girls, and she could not rest until she had entered upon personal effort for their Christian education. Accompanied by Miss Harriet E. Giles, who was also a native of New Salem, and who was associated with her in life work from 1855 to the day of her death, she came to Atlanta in 1881. Her life during the last ten years was identical with the history of Spelman Seminary. In 1890 she took a trip to Palestine for the benefit of her health, which had begun to fail, and it was so far restored that she was able to take up the school work again with renewed energy. In Feb., 1891, she was prostrated by severe illness, from which she never fully recovered. Vacation having arrived, she left Atlanta for a rest in the north, with the hope of recuperating for still another year, but was unable to proceed farther than Washington. Here, on the 21st of June, 1891, the end came. She was laid to rest by the side of a beloved brother in the peaceful cemetery of Athol, Mass. Great is the loss to the women of Georgia, but her works live on. As Miss Packard often said in the confidence of faith, "This school is not mine, it is the Lord's; he will care for his own."

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

In our Primary and Intermediate Departments, which form our Normal Practice School, and in our Grammar Department, we give thorough instruction in graded classes, in reading, spelling, arithmetic, writing, language and grammar, geography, and the Bible.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

Our Normal and Training Department having been reorganized and enlarged, we no longer include instruction in the principles and practice of teaching in the required course for under-graduate students. We have accordingly changed the name of our Scientific or Higher Normal Course to that of an Academic Course, and the diploma given on the completion of the course will be an academic diploma. The studies pursued are the same as those heretofore taken in our Scientific or Higher Normal Course, and the academic diploma will represent the same attainments in scholarship as the scientific or higher normal diploma has done. Our normal diplomas henceforth indicate that the student has been a pupil-teacher and has taken the full course set forth under our Normal and Training Department. No other department bears the name Normal.

All students unable to enter our Academic Department will receive full preparation therefor in our Preparatory Department.

ELECTIVE COURSE.

In this department students who are prepared may take elective or irregular courses, provided the course proposed shall be decided by the Principals to be preferable to the regular course for the object in view. In general, the qualifications for admission to special courses must be equivalent to those for admission to the Academic Course.

NORMAL AND TRAINING DEPARTMENT.

Normal training, in the true sense, springs from a recognition of the fact that something more is necessary to the teacher than a knowledge of the subjects to be taught. She must have some knowledge of the principles of teaching, and of the powers and faculties of the pupils she is to teach; and, more important still, she should serve a kind of apprenticeship at the work, and actually teach, under the supervision of experienced teachers, the very subjects she will be required to teach when she takes charge of a school.

The Normal and Training Department aims to supply the latter requirements. Taking the student after she has finished her academic course, and is supposed to be familiar with the subjects there taught, it gives her thorough instruction in the principles of teaching, and at the same time gives her thorough practice under the criticism of the normal teachers.

The course may be completed in one or more years, according to previous preparation. It embraces the following subjects:—

1. A thorough review of elementary branches; reading, spelling, grammar, arithmetic, etc. When the normal teachers are satisfied that the pupil is sufficiently prepared, this may be dispensed with.
2. Instruction in psychology in its relation to the art of teaching.
3. Practical instruction in the history and philosophy of education.
4. Instruction in the most approved methods of teaching; embracing reading, spelling, grammar, language, geography, arithmetic, mental and written, general object lessons, penmanship, music, drawing, physical culture and the Bible.
5. Daily practice teaching under the criticism of the normal teachers. The practice work includes all the subjects mentioned in paragraph 4.

For the purpose of affording the necessary practice, there is connected with the Seminary in a building constructed for the purpose, a special graded Practice School, in which are taught all the subjects in which professional instruction is given.

Before receiving the certificate of the Normal and Training Department, each pupil-teacher will be required to teach at least ten subjects, each subject for a period of eight weeks.

The Normal and Training Department is related alike to Spelman and Atlanta Baptist Seminaries; the students of both schools are taught in the same classes. Each Seminary, however, has its own separate Practice School.

MISSIONARY TRAINING DEPARTMENT.

The Missionary Training Department gives instruction that will prepare those who have graduated from our Academic Department to be missionary teachers, family missionaries, and church and Sunday-school workers, either here or in foreign lands.

Each missionary student who is admitted to the training work on a mission field, during the summer session, will receive for her five months' service, one hundred dollars above expenses. This will clothe her for the entire year, and pay her board and other expenses in the Seminary, during the winter session.

Graduates from other institutions, and any others of proper attainments, who have an earnest purpose to serve the Lord as missionaries, are invited to enter upon the studies of this department.

COLLEGE PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

A full college department is to be added in the near future to the present departments. We now offer to our students a choice between an academic and a college preparatory course. Those who wish to fit themselves for the college course will take the studies outlined under College Preparatory Course.

NURSE TRAINING DEPARTMENT.

Our Course in Sick Nursing is conducted by a graduate of the Illinois Training School for Nurses attached to the Cook County and Presbyterian Hospitals of Chicago. This course includes the study of physiology and hygiene, and the care of the sick, both in theory and in practice in the sick-room. All patients in Everts' Ward are under the care of undergraduates of this course. Two courses of study are offered, professional and non-professional. The graduate of the former must pursue three years of study in the department, must pass satisfactorily the required examinations, must possess a good moral character, and must be at least nineteen years of age. The latter course is offered to those who wish merely the instruction that will enable them to care intelligently for the sick in their own homes. Any persons who are already well educated in general studies might be able to complete this course in two years by devoting to it their whole time. Certificates are given those who finish the course. Atlanta physicians constantly employ and recommend graduates, who receive very high wages. These physicians show their appreciation of our work by giving free lectures from time to time to our class. From a physician's address may be quoted the following words: "The hands of a nurse are the physician's hands lengthened out. If she fails to appreciate her duties, the physician fails in the same degree to give aid to his patients." Every young woman should be familiar with the fundamental principles of good nursing; otherwise who can say she is fitted to care for her own health or that of her family? For those contemplating missionary work it is well-nigh essential. The profession of nursing is to-day attracting women of all ranks. Of those contemplating entering it we would ask, What are your motives? If merely to earn a living, choose anything but nursing. The profession does not want you, and you do not want the profession; for it is a hard way of earning an uncertain living. We invite those who want to do some good in the world. You who want work, we welcome. You will find it. But it has been said, "Only to those who go into it for Christ's sake is it given to know the joy, the greatness, the Christ-likeness of our work."

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.

The Industrial Department is made a prominent feature in this institution. The results accomplished through the aid of the Slater Fund prove beyond a doubt the desirableness and practicability of industrial training in connection with our course of study. Every year increases our firm conviction that labor of the hands for a part of the day, directed by skilled instructors, promotes good discipline, good morals, and good mental energy as nothing else can. Every woman should be a good housekeeper, for her own honor and the progress of civilization. For all, especially for those who are to be teachers and mothers, we believe industrial training to be essential to give self-reliance and self-support. Our great aim is to make education practical. Hence all the boarders are required to learn the art of house-keeping in all its branches. The time of seven teachers is mainly devoted to this department.

Regular courses of instruction are pursued, and certificates are awarded accordingly. Each student receiving a certificate in this course has attended the school at least two years, is of good moral character, and has served creditably in the following branches taught in the industrial department: chamber-work, table-work, dish-washing, cooking, washing, ironing, and plain sewing.

Printing is an elective study. Sewing, dress-making, and printing may be taken by day-scholars as well as boarders.

HOUSE-KEEPING.

The daily routine of life in the institution gives practical instruction in house-keeping. Boarders take care of their own rooms, and of the school-rooms, halls, and dining-rooms. Every pupil is expected to give at least one hour daily to house-work. Each one has her duty to perform daily, and the assignments are changed once a month. By this means table-work, dish-washing, bed-making, sweeping and dusting, and all the other arts that make home neat and pleasant, are taught to all.

COOKING.

The daily cooking for three hundred boarders is done under the eye of the matrons by students. In addition to this, there is a class in cooking, consisting of the candidates for the industrial certificates, who study cooking as a science, with a regular course of instruction which includes both plain and fine cooking. Bread-making is considered of great importance.

WASHING AND IRONING.

A large, airy, fire-proof laundry gives ample provision for fine laundry work. Each boarder is expected to do her own washing and ironing under the supervision of a competent teacher.

SEWING AND DRESS-MAKING.

Every boarding pupil is required to learn the art of plain sewing. There are three classes in sewing, and promotions are made from the lower to the higher as fast as the pupil's proficiency will allow. Mending, the cutting and making of undergarments, and button-hole making are taught. Fancy needle-work is taken up after skill in plain sewing is acquired. Those desiring to learn the dress-maker's trade thoroughly have an opportunity to do so; the most approved methods of fitting are used.

PRINTING.

One of the pleasantest trades open to women is that of compositor in a printing-office. We call the attention of parents to our facilities for teaching this trade. Our printing-office issues monthly an eight-page school paper, the SPELMAN MESSENGER; it also prints our annual catalogue, besides the letter and bill heads, envelopes, programs, cards, and labels required for school use. This variety of work ensures instruction in a variety of type-setting.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

VOICE BUILDING.

The Dudley method now taught in our Normal Practice School is one which time and experience have proved to be the safest, quickest and best. Pupils studying this method will receive instruction in the following points:—a thorough knowledge of the construction and the use and abuse of the vocal chords; the proper use of the chest, intercostal, diaphragmatic, and abdominal muscles in singing; the action of the throat, tongue, cheek, and lip muscles upon the tone; the sounding boards of the voice; the general causes of singing flat and sharp, and their remedy; how to abolish a throaty tone; how to connect the upper and lower registers o the voice where a break occurs; the effect of facial expression upon the tone; and the perfect formation of every consonant and vowel. Young singers who desire to start with a perfect method, and those whose voices have become impaired by improper use, will find this method unsurpassed.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

An extra charge of two dollars per month is made to those taking instrumental music. Instruction is given on both piano and organ, with special attention to the definition of musical terms and a thorough knowledge of the rudiments of music. The method of instruction is modern and progressive, employing New England Conservatory plans of teaching.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

OUR AIM.

The Seminary is distinctly Christian, as its founders willed it to be, and it welcomes those of every faith to its advantages. The aim is to build character. Christianity and morality are the foundation of all our teaching, for, if these are neglected, all else is vain. To this end we train the intellect, store the mind with useful knowledge, induce habits of industry and a desire for general information, inspire a love for the true and the beautiful, and prepare the pupils for the practical duties of life. These are the objects earnestly sought to be accomplished. Our motto is, "Our whole school for Christ."

RISE AND PROGRESS.

Spelman Seminary began its existence April 11, 1881, in the basement of Friendship Church, Atlanta, with eleven pupils, under Miss Packard and Miss Giles. There the work of instruction was carried on for nearly two years, until the low, dark room was so crowded that more space was absolutely necessary. The present property was then bought and the school was moved, and a boarding department was opened. There has been a steady growth in the number of scholars, a steady advance in the number of departments in which instruction is given, and a steady increase in the number of buildings erected, and in other facilities for a broad and thorough education.

LOCATION.

Atlanta was chosen as the location of the Seminary, because its healthful climate, railroad connections, and spirit of enterprise, have made it largely the political, commercial, and educational center of the tate.

The Seminary is situated on one of the most elevated, quiet, and lovely spots within the limits of the city, and affords superior facilities for acquiring a thorough education, with economy in expenditure, and preservation of morals. In point of healthfulness, the location is unsurpassed.

Grounds are extensive for recreation, and there are delightful walks in every direction. Access is easy by two street-car lines,—Broad street and Whitehall street; the former leaves Marietta street, and passes very near the Seminary.

BUILDINGS.

Spelman Seminary has about fourteen acres of land, upon which there are five large brick buildings, four frame dormitories, and a frame hospital for the sick.

Rockefeller Hall, 135 ft. long, which was erected in 1886, contains the chapel, nine recitation-rooms, the library, office, and principals' parlor, and thirty bed-rooms in the second and third stories of the wings.

Packard Hall, 110 ft. long, finished in 1888, holds the dining-rooms in the basement, music-rooms on the first floor, and thirty bed-rooms and a study-hall. In its tower is the musical school bell.

The Industrial Building is in the rear of Packard Hall, and connected with it by covered passage-ways. The first story is used for the kitchen, pantries, and dish-room, and the second story contains the printing-office and a large sewing-room.

The Laundry was built in 1890, and gives facilities for eighty girls to work at the same time. There are two large rooms on the ground floor, a washing-room and an ironing-room, and in the attic is a drying-room. It is supplied with water from the city. There is no provision for any other than hand work, as the object of the laundry is not to turn off work as rapidly as possible, but to teach washing and ironing as they must be done under the conditions of ordinary home life.

Giles Hall, a very large and fine brick building, is 170 ft. long and four stories high, besides a basement entirely above ground. On the first floor are a large school-room, 62x46 ft., and ten class-rooms for the use of the primary department of the practice school; on the second floor are similar rooms for the intermediate department. The third floor contains a laboratory and science lecture room, commodious recitation-rooms for our normal and training and missionary training classes, and eighteen dormitories for the students of these departments and their teachers.

The four frame Dormitories once served as the quarters of officers of the Union Army. They were double houses, but have been remodeled, and each affords a large study hall and pleasant dormitories for the girls. They are connected by a piazza running along the front, making a covered walk extending the whole length of the way.

Spelman Seminary is furnished with city gas and city water, and the large brick buildings are heated by steam from a central heating-plant. Rooms are large, airy, well ventilated, and well heated.

MEMBERSHIP.

Applicants for admission are expected to pass satisfactory examination and to give testimonials of good moral character. Pupils should be present the first day of school, that they may be classified and thus lose no time.

ESPECIAL ADVANTAGES.

LIBRARY.

We have a very fine Reading Room in Rockefeller Hall, given by Mr. J. J. Jones of New York. A large room in Packard Hall has been furnished for our Library by the Educational Society; it is called the Quarles Library in honor of Rev. Frank Quarles. Our greatest present needs are for the works of standard authors, and for condensed reference books in which long and technical words are avoided. Many o the leading papers have been gratuitously supplied,—Christian Secretary, National Temperance Advocate, Youths' Temperance Banner, Onward Georgia Baptist, Weekly Sentinel, Missionary Magazine, Herald of The Coming One, Journal and Messenger, The Indiana Baptist, The American Baptist, The Woman's News, The Woman's Journal, etc.

MUSEUM.

A fine nucleus of a school museum has been presented to the Seminary by Rev. J. M. Lewis, a missionary in Africa. It includes a case of stuffed birds, a part being American, and a part African. Objects of interest from the Holy Land have also been placed here by Miss Packard. Contributions to this museum will be gratefully received.

APPARATUS.

The school owns a telescope, a microscope, a stereopticon and sets of slides, an air-pump, an electrical machine, a human skeleton, and other valuable and instructive apparatus.

LECTURES.

Lectures and Stereopticon Exhibitions are given throughout the course.

SOCIETIES.

The Young Women's Christian Association has accomplished much. It includes many branches of work. Its Missionary Department has in view the advancement of the cause of missions at home or abroad,—the members go out to do missionary work in the city, distributing religious papers and tracts, and inviting to church and Sabbath-school those who do not attend either; a Congo Mission Circle and a Students' Volunteer Mission Band are in a flourishing condition and quite a number are preparing for the work in Africa. The band of "Christian Temperance Workers" is exerting a healthful influence. All boarding students have organized themselves into a Social Purity Society. There are eight Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor, with a general superintendent, and the effect upon the religious life of the scholars has been marked and helpful.

BIBLE INSTRUCTION.

Christian Doctrines, Evidences of Christianity, Bible History, and Moral Science are included in our Academic Course. A systematic course of Bible study is taken up by all the classes. Daily expositions of the Bible are given to the entire school at morning devotions. A regular Sunday-school is held every Sunday, followed by a preaching service or a Bible reading. Once a week a stirring social purity meeting is held, and rousing missionary and temperance meetings are held monthly. There are frequent prayer meetings. Each Friday night there is a meeting for the study of the International lesson, which is open to any who wish to learn more of God's word. It is fully attended, and great interest is always manifested.

ELOCUTION.

Vocal Gymnastics.—Especial attention is given to this branch. Faulty articulation, enunciation, and inflection are corrected as soon as possible. The students are trained in vocal gymnastics, and to deliver with ease and grace, as well as with energy and force, choice selections from standard authors.

DRAWING.

Systematic instruction is given in form study and drawing.

HEALTH.

The health of the family is considered of primary importance. A resident nurse cares for the sick, and one of the best physicians of the town is summoned when it is deemed necessary.

The good health which our pupils have uniformly experienced is due to the locality of the place and our regularity of living. Labor with the hands for a short time every day, which is required of each boarder, is conducive to physical health and mental energy.

EXPENSES.

Board is seven dollars per month in advance, and one dollar extra is charged for incidentals, making eight dollars per month. An additional fifty cents will be charged on the twentieth of each month, if the board is then unpaid, the bills being due on the first day of each month.

Instrumental music lessons cost two dollars a month extra, payable in advance. Those who learn dress-making must buy a chart, at a cost of four dollars. Books are bought at wholesale prices, and sold again to students at the same rates. Students must bring extra money to pay for their books. There are no other extra expenses.

All money in payment of bills must be sent by money order, draft, registered letter, or express, directly to Miss Harriet E. Giles, treasurer. Bills must be paid promptly.

REQUIREMENTS.

Each student is expected to furnish her own towels and napkins. Each article should be distinctly marked with the owner's name, and a list of articles should be brought by each pupil. Dark skirts, thick shoes, rubbers, and waterproof must also be provided.

Each trunk must be plainly marked with the owner's name.

REGULATIONS.

Pupils must be courteous and polite to their school-mates and respectful and obedient to their teachers. No students are wanted or retained, who have not sufficient character to appreciate their advantages, and to listen to reasonable advice and admonition.

Neatness, cleanliness, industry, and economy are with us indispensable virtues.

Each pupil must study at night, but not later than nine o'clock.

Students will be charged for damage done by them to the property of the Seminary.

Stationery and text-books can be obtained in the institution.

Visitors are always welcome to the exercises of the Seminary.

The pupils can receive their friends on Saturdays and during recreation hours, but not during regular exercises, nor on the Sabbath. No student should spend a single Sabbath away from the Seminary during term time.

Pupils will not be allowed to receive boxes of provisions.

All students are expected to return to their homes at the close of school, and not to remain in Atlanta to make visits.

RECORD OF SCHOLARSHIP.

An accurate record is kept of the scholarship and deportment of each student. The standing of any pupil, at any time, can be determined by these records, for the benefit of parents and patrons.

Good order, prompt obedience, and diligent study must be secured.

Promotions will be made to those alone who have proved themselves worthy.

DIPLOMAS AND CERTIFICATES.

Diplomas are awarded to those who have completed the full courses and passed all the required examinations, provided their deportment and moral character, in connection with their scholarship, shall justify the honor. Others, on leaving, may receive statements, showing what they have actually accomplished.

Certificates are given to those who complete the courses in the industrial, nurse-training, and printing departments.

FURNISHING OF TEACHERS.

Many students aid themselves in obtaining an education by teaching. Superintendents of schools, and any who desire teachers, can address the Principals, who will recommend students, and give certificates of standing and membership.

Several of our graduates have fine positions as teachers in the public schools of Atlanta and other cities; others are teaching in private institutions; and two gave themselves to foreign mission work in Africa.

NEEDS.

First. An Endowment Fund.
Second. Money for Missionary Training Department.
Third. Books for Library.
Fourth. Money for an Elevator for Giles Hall.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

The Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society supports fifteen of the teachers, besides aiding us in many other ways.

The help received from the Slater Fund has been of untold advantage to the Seminary. Without it the industrial department could not have been effectively carried on, nor could we have reorganized our normal work.

We heartily thank all individuals, churches, Sunday-schools, and societies who have so generously aided us.

Above all, we thank God for the abundant spiritual blessings of the past thirteen years. About nine hundred of our pupils have here been brought to Christ, of whom thirty have been converted this year.
